Julian Assange and The Wikileaks Files - Newsnight

Published on 7 September 2015

Whatever happened to Julian Assange? Yes, he's still at the Ecuadorean Embassy in London. He's been there for three years now. One of the ways he's been spending his time is commissioning a series of essays, which have been put together as a book, The Wikileaks Files. He agreed to speak to Newsnight's Nick Hopkins on that - and that alone. Nick began by asking him why the book is important.

Decoding the current war in Syria: The WikiLeaks Files

By Janani Ganesan / 31 August 2015

The US strategically schemed to cause unrest in Syria against the incumbent Bashar al-Assad government. Faced with the rise of ISIS, which the US was not only aware of but also encouraged, the US slides deeper into a complicated war it helped escalate in the first place, recently involving the once reluctant Turkey and clandestinely including 80 British personnel as well.

Dec 13, 2006

Influencing the SARG [Syrian government] in the End of 2006

William Roebuck

Chargé d'affaires, US embassy, Damascus

We believe Bashar's [Bashar-al-Assad, Syrian President] weaknesses are in how he chooses to react to looming issues, both perceived and real, such as the conflict between economic reform steps (however limited) and entrenched, corrupt forces, the Kurdish question, and the potential threat to the regime from the increasing presence of transiting Islamist extremists. This cable summarizes our assessment of these vulnerabilities and suggests that there may be actions, statements, and the signals that the USG can send that will improve the likelihood of such opportunities arising." [Emphasis added]

The WikiLeaks Files

This cable suggests that the US goal in December 2006 was to undermine the Syrian government by any available means, and that what mattered was whether US action would help destabilize the government, not what other impacts the action might have...In public, the US was opposed to 'Islamist terrorists' everywhere; but in private it saw the 'potential threat to the regime from the increasing presence of transiting Islamist extremists' as an 'opportunity' that the US should take action to try to increase.

Robert Naiman

The WikiLeaks Files

US ally Turkey joined the supposed war against ISIS in Syria with airstrikes and by allowing US to use its airbase in Icirlik along the Syria-Turkey border. That "Turkey's intelligence agency helped supply arms to parts of Syria under Islamist rebel control in late 2013 and early 2014" clarifies Turkey's aims. While appearing to launch attacks on ISIS, Turkey simultaneously targeted PKK (Kurdistan Workers' Party) in Iraq, the parent-wing of the PYD (Democratic Union Party in Syria) consisting of Syrian Kurds, who have been the main opposition to ISIS on-ground, thereby alienating "America's most important military ally in the Syrian war." In fact, Turkey's airstrikes have disproportionately targeted PKK rather than the ISS. And the US is not innocent here either.

US intelligence is used by Turkish warplanes to bomb Kurdish villages where the PKK has a strong presence, killing many civilians in the process.

Conn Hallinan

The WikiLeaks Files

Of the 1032 people arrested by Turkey, 847 are accused of links to the PKK and just 137 to ISIS. Turkey has also refused to give air cover to Syrian Kurdish soldiers fighting against the ISIS. Well aware of this, US remains reluctant to condemn Turkey. US has never shied away from using its allies and enemies to suit its own strategic interests, without paying attention to the consequences of such collaborations, however harmful.

By 2014, the sectarian Sunni-Shia character of the civil war in Syria was bemoaned in the United States as an unfortunate development. But in December 2006, the man heading the US embassy in Syria advocated in a cable to the Secretary of State and the White House that the US government collaborate with Saudi Arabia and Egypt to promote sectarian conflict in Syria between Sunni and Shia as a means of destabilizing the Syrian government. At that time, no one in the US government could credibly have claimed innocence of the possible implications of such a policy. This cable was written at the height of the sectarian Sunni-Shia civil war in Iraq, which the US military was unsuccessfully trying to contain. US public disgust with the sectarian civil war in Iraq unleashed by the US invasion had just cost Republicans control of Congress in the November 2006 election. The election result immediately precipitated the resignation of Donald Rumsfeld as secretary of defense. No one working for the US government on foreign policy at the time could have been unaware of the implications of promoting Sunni-Shia sectarianism.

Robert Naiman

And yet the US proceeded to do exactly that in Syria, repeating its horrendous attack on Iraq, which reduced it to a warring, fragmented and unstable country. Verso author Patrick Cockburn writes, "The result is that the US may find it has helped to destabilize Turkey by involving it in the war in both Iraq and Syria, yet without coming much closer to defeating Isis in either country. If so, America will have committed its biggest mistake in the Middle East since it invaded Iraq in 2003."

US foreign policy in the Middle East has generally rested on four pillars: Turkey, Egypt, the Persian Gulf monarchies, and Israel. That combination of strategic placement, wealth and military power has successfully kept the region divided and powerless for more than a half century.

Conn Hallinan

The WikiLeaks Files

Interpretations by scholars in The Wikileaks Files on US diplomatic cables related to Syria, read in combination with those on Turkey, Iran and Iraq, are key to understanding US's strategic involvement in the ongoing war in Syria.

...to randomly pick up isolated diplomatic records that intersect with known entities and disputes, as some daily newspapers have done, is to miss 'the empire' for its cables...This book begins to address the need for scholarly analysis of what the millions of documents published by Wikileaks say about international geopolitics.

Julian Assange

Introduction to The WikiLeaks Files

The WikiLeaks Files is a comprehensive analysis of all of the Wikileaks diplomatic cables, assembled by a team of independent foreign policy experts—an essential reference guide to the 21st century's most explosive diplomatic revelations.

Comment:

Fredrick Toben ·

My testing the veracity of anyone making public global pronouncements consists of four matters that few dare ask questions about. If one places the following items into Wikileaks website – <https://search.wikileaks.org/>, the number of results that come up is not surprising:

1. The Holocaust-Shoah and the existence of homicidal gas chambers - 0;
  2. The proposal to turn Europe into a "brown-coloured" continent where Europeans are no longer distinguishable as a separate racial entity, as proposed by the Coudenhove-Kalergi Plan - 0;
  3. The establishing of a New World Order as followed by the USA in adopting Halford Mackinder's global political model - 19;
  4. The establishment of Eretz Israel - 245.
- Where does Wikileaks stand on the issues raised in these points?

NY Times: Germans Welcome Migrants After Long Journey Through Hungary and Austria

By KATRIN BENNHOLD, STEVEN ERLANGER and ALISON SMALE, SEPT. 5, 2015

MUNICH — Germans waving welcome signs in German, English and Arabic came to the train station here Saturday to greet the first group of what is expected to be about 8,000 migrants to arrive in Germany by early Sunday, after an arduous and emotional journey through Hungary and Austria. Germans applauded and volunteers offered hot tea, food and toys as about 450 migrants arrived on a special train service from Austria, finally reaching Germany, which had held out an open hand to them.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ANGELA MERKEL

By Mike King

"All The News That Sulzberger's Propaganda Rag Saw Fit To Distort"

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

AN OPEN LETTER TO ANGELA MERKEL

To the Frumpy Frau of Germany,

Having studied and written so much about the glory days of Germany and its great and glorious "Fuhrer"; we at The Anti-New York Times are especially pained to witness your deliberate destruction of not merely the great German nation, but indeed, the actual German race/bloodline itself. Tolerance and respect for other races and ethnicities does not entail the deliberate slow-motion genocide of your own kind!

It isn't enough that 26% (and rising) of children born in aging Marxified and debt-ridden Germany are now born to foreign imports. It isn't enough that highly fertile immigrants keep pouring in as your young German women - following your own sterling example of careerist barrenness - go childless and even turn lesbian; while many of the young men -- well, you know.

Childless Germany Children per woman (2009)

Due to epidemics of unmarried youth, careerism, feminism, divorce, faggotry and lesbianism, degenerate Atheistic Germany now has the lowest birth rate in the world (here) --

Just those trends alone would be enough to eventually render future generations of White Germans a minority in the land of their ancestors before becoming an extinct race altogether - just like the blended out / wiped out ancient Aryans of Egypt and India. But that wasn't enough for you, Angie. Now you have gone ahead and green-lighted an unlimited mass invasion of unscreened migrant hordes from the Middle East and Africa. What Theodore Kaufman only dreamed of when he published the evil tract, Germany Must Perish in 1939, you and your fellow Globalists are making a reality.

The combed-over clown Donald Trump recently dubbed you "the greatest leader in the world". The Communist Pope, who has already awarded you with a medallion depicting St. Martin giving his coat to the needy, is extremely pleased with you. Your Jewish-Marxist masters are praising you for your "courage" (barf). Your de-balled German Ministers will again clamor for you to win a Nobel Peace Prize. But as you bask in the "humanitarian" glow of the International Juden Press, know that some of us are not fooled by the Super Woman propaganda that has always surrounded you.

Some Germans are able to see Merkel for what she really is. All that's missing is the Star of David on Uncle Sam's hat.

Angie, you can fool the degenerate libtards of modern Germany. You can fool the malleable morons who worship Sulzberger's Slimes. But nobody fools The Anti New York Times! We know who you are, who you work for, and what you are really up to.

We know:

- * that you were a willing and enthusiastic East German Communist Party Youth leader during the bad old days of divided Germany.
- * that your cruel regime continues to hunt down 90 year Waffen SS men -- the very heroes who foresaw the horrible future and risked their lives to stop it.
- * that under your watch, 'bestiality brothels' are flourishing in Germany without so much as a peep from the government

1. Young Angie marches with her commie pals. Those who knew her say she was an enthusiastic little Marxist who "organized propaganda and agitation."

2. SS hero John Demjanuk had to be carried into a German courtroom on a stretcher. He soon died in custody.

An animal protection officer in the German state of Hesse has expressed frustration with a German law that makes spreading bestiality porn illegal — but the act itself legal.

Madeleine Martin told the Frankfurter Rundschau that current laws were not

3. Animal rape is legal in Merkel's Germany -- legitimate scholarship in regard to World War II is not!

We know:

- * that you have imprisoned 1000s of Germans for "denying the Holocaust TM"
- * that you, at the behest of your CIA-Mossad handlers, helped cause this refugee crisis by sabotaging Syria's Assad
- * that you supported Bush's Iraq War in 2003 she was for it before she was against it / [here]
- * that you staged a phony stunt with a Palestinian girl in order to generate sympathy for the coming invasion

87 year old Ursula Havebeck was recently arrested for "Holocaust Denial"

2. Merkel supported Bush's genocidal sanctions and unjust war against Iraq

3. Just last month, mendacious Merkel and a crisis-acting "Palestinian girl" staged a fake crying stunt in order to set up the chumps of Germany for the upcoming invasion.

We know:

- * that you supported all of U.S. / NATO's destabilising actions throughout Central Africa
- * that you endorsed Satanyahu's butchery of Gaza
- * that you know that the managers of this invasion are embedding criminal and perhaps subversive elements within the ranks of the migrants
- * that you are working in coordination with Obongo and the Viper of the Vatican -- timing this invasion to coincide with Frankie Faker's upcoming political tour of America

1. Behind the phony posturing as a "humanitarian", Palestinian lives don't matter to manly Merkel.

2. Angela Kasner Merkel - a crypto yenta? Oy vey!

3. The fiendish Pope is knee deep in this Marxist subversion

Through both your actions and your deliberate silence, you have helped to engineer the mutual tragedy of this refugee migration - a disaster now being compounded by phony refugees piggybacking along with the real refugees. You know this true, but you won't dare say it for that might bring to light the fact that Israelis are the preeminent human traffickers in world history.

Pose all you want, you wicked wench; you filthy Frau. But, to paraphrase Macbeth, all Neptune's oceans will not wash away innocent Syrian, innocent Iraqi, innocent Palestinian and innocent African blood from your hands. As if those crimes against humanity weren't enough, you will also be responsible for the innocent Germans who are destined to be raped and murdered by the criminal minority that has surely attached itself to the Israeli-organized migrant horde.

But worst of all, Angie, as future historians (real ones) will one day observe, is the crime of slow-motion genocide that you have decreed against your own people. Boy-oh-boy, Hitler sure saw you comin' when he said:

The Jew uses every possible means to undermine the racial foundations of a subjugated people. In his systematic efforts to ruin girls and women he strives to break down the last barriers of discrimination between him and other peoples. The Jews were responsible for bringing negroes into the Rhineland, with the ultimate idea of mixing the white race which they hate so that the Jew might dominate.

More recently, a European Jewish civic leader named Barbara Lerner Spectre echoed the Führer's words:

Europe has not yet learned how to be multicultural. And I think we are going to be part of the throes of that transformation, which must take place. Europe is not going to be the monolithic societies [sic] that they once were in the last century. Jews are going to be at the center of that. It's a huge transformation for Europe to make. They are now going into a multicultural mode, and Jews will be resented because of our leading role.

Angela, you are no "angel"; but a cunning she-Devil. You have not only sold your soul to the Devil; but condemned your own people to him as well. --- Or are the Germans really the people from which you sprang? Hmmm.

Hitler and Spectre made the same observation!

Germany Must Perish, by Theodore Kaufman, 1939

"This dynamic volume outlines a comprehensive plan for the extinction of the German nation and the total eradication from the earth, of all her people." Here

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Angela Merkel is receiving high marks for her generous handling of the migrant crisis.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. Given Germay's past, it's important for her to take the lead on this issue.

Ghanaian Actress Rose Mensah aka Kyeiwaa Divorces Husband 4 Days After Marriage

By AccraReport Staff @accrereport ·
On September 5, 2015

Ghanaian actress Rose Mensah, popularly known as Kyeiwaa, has divorced her husband Daniel Osei, less than four days after the glamorous event.

The Kumasi-based Spare Parts dealer tied the knot with the famous Kumawood actress last weekend in Kumasi, the Ashanti regional capital.

Twenty-four hours after the wedding, it emerged that Mr. Osei was a married man with kids. Wife of Mr. Osei later revealed that her husband claimed that his marriage to Kyeiwaa was just a movie and nothing serious.

It has also emerged that Osei rented a crowd for Sunday's ceremony.

Kyeiwaa, however, has confirmed to Kasapa FM that she is done with Osei, whose attempt to cheat on two women, has failed dramatically.

A number of Kumawood actors on Thursday accompanied Kyeiwaa to Osei's residence to seek for divorce.

Ex-Bodyguard - Mugabe Worse Than Ian Smith

By News24 Correspondent

Zimbabwe President Robert Mugabe at parliament

Zimbabwean President Robert Mugabe was worse than colonial ruler Ian Smith, one of Mugabe's former bodyguards said on Monday.

"He is now worse than the Smith regime and he is against his people," South African-born Chinoto Zulu said in Harare.

He was speaking at an event commemorating the United Nations (UN) International Day of the Victims of Enforced Disappearances. Zulu is a former army chief and worked as Mugabe's personal bodyguard for several years after independence before retiring.

He blamed the government for the disappearance of human rights activist Itai Dzamara.

"We know very well the State is behind Dzamara disappearance. This is an evil regime, as I speak, I also have been put under surveillance by Mugabe spy agents. They have also grabbed all my property I acquired during my time in government," said Zulu, who is also veteran of Zimbabwe's liberation struggle.

Japanese PM Hails President's Statesmanship

By Farirai Machivenyika, 3 September 2015

Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe, has expressed his admiration of President Mugabe's grasp of politics and history. This was revealed by Mr Kuzuyuki Nakane, Japan's Parliament Vice Foreign Minister when he paid a courtesy call on President Mugabe at State House to officially invite him to a State Visit to the Asian country in October.

"We came here to officially hand Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's invitation to His Excellency President Mugabe to visit Japan because Prime Minister Abe is very impressed by His Excellency's wealth of knowledge about politics and deep insight about history," Mr Nakane said speaking through an interpreter.

Zimbabwe:

Nine Things You Might Not Know About Robert

Analysis, by Tendai Marima, The Daily Vox \(Johannesburg\), 16 July 2015

Zimbabwean President Robert Mugabe is by no means the globe's most-loved man. He's been stripped of his British knighthood, some of his honorary degrees, and the freedom to travel to the West. But at 91 years old, Mugabe is the world's oldest sitting president and is still going strong after 35 years in power. You may know him as one of the world's worst dictators - for a litany of human rights abuses, including the allegedly authorised massacres of up to 20,000 civilians in the 1980s - but TENDAI MARIMA rounds up a few things you may not know about Robert Gabriel Mugabe.

1. Orphan president

Seeing as he's over 90, it's no surprise that Mugabe's mother, Bona Mugabe (nee Shoniwa), and father, Gabriel Chatunga Mugabe, who was of Malawian origin, are both dead. But he's also outlived all his siblings; his three brothers and two sisters have also passed on. According to Mugabe, the death of his older brothers Raphael (six months) in 1922 and the poisoning of Michael (15), in 1934, really tore his mother up and may have led his father to abandon the family.

2. Last of the liberators

Mugabe is thought to be the only sitting African president to have witnessed the formation of the Organisation of African Unity (OAU). The African Union's predecessor was formed on 25 May 1963 in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. Mugabe attended the founding summit as a representative of the then liberation movement, the Zimbabwe African National Union, today's ruling Zanu-PF.

3. White help

An Italian priest, Father Emmanuel Ribeiro and a German-born nun and sociologist, Sister Mary Aquina, are said to have aided Mugabe; the late Edgar Tekere, former Zanu PF Secretary-general; and others escape to Mozambique in April 1975. Father Ribeiro and Sister Mary reportedly helped by devising the escape route and supplying the getaway cars. Father Ribeiro drove one car with Tekere and Sister Mary drove the other with Mugabe and some white nuns as decoy passengers. Both cars helped the nationalists escape Harare (then Salisbury) to Ruwa, a small settlement about 30km north of the capital. From there they continued on their own to Chief Rekayi Tangwena's lands in the north-eastern highlands near the Kaerezi River bordering Mozambique.

4. Man of letters or man of action?

According to Tekere's biography, A Lifetime of Struggle (2011), Mugabe was ever the plucky bookworm. Tekere writes that while crossing the near-flooded Kaerezi River into Mozambique, he himself carried a radio and some matches, while Mugabe carried a portable typewriter in a steel case.

5. No keen negotiator

Mugabe didn't want to attend the 1979 Lancaster House Conference in the UK that led to a negotiated settlement with the Rhodesian government. He was pressured into it by the then president of Zambia, Kenneth Kaunda, and the late Samora Machel, then president of Mozambique, whose countries had suffered raids and bombings for allowing the armed wings of the Zimbabwean liberation fighters to have bases on their borders.

6. Holy charm

Mugabe is a staunch Catholic, and throughout the 1970s war of liberation and his presidency, he has always carried the same set of rosary beads.

7. Two babies and a wedding

When Mugabe officially wed his former secretary Grace Marufu in August of 1996 he already had two young children, Bona (6) and Robert Peter Junior (about 3). His first wife, Sally Hayfron Mugabe, had died in 1992 of kidney problems at the age of 60. Although news of Mugabe and Grace's secret marriage ceremony in 1995 landed a newspaper editor and his publisher in trouble, their posh wedding a year later was attended by thousands, including South Africa's late president Nelson Mandela; former president Joaquim Chissano of Mozambique, who was the best man; and former president Sir Keetumile Masire of Botswana.

8. The "undertaker"

Mugabe's son, Robert Jnr (22) was so good at basketball he played for the junior national team and he might play for Zimbabwe at the AfroBasket Championships to be held in Tunisia next month. Sporty he might be, but Robert Jnr, who is now at university in Dubai, flunked his A-level exams so badly that his father has referred to him as an "undertaker", supposedly in reference to poor grades.

9. On the move

A 2002 travel ban on Mugabe was eased this year after he became AU chair. Since then, Mugabe's been on the move, making trade deals in Egypt, Indonesia and South Africa, observing a peace-deal signing in Mali, attending presidential inaugurations in Zambia, Sudan and Nigeria, and addressing the UN on Ebola in New York. Local media and political opposition say Mugabe bleeding the country dry with his frequent travel, but some of his trips on regional business are presumably funded by SADC and the AU. Surely, that's a perk of being the "King of Africa".

Finally, the perfect wedding gift. Photo: Shutterstock

An original manuscript of Richard Wagner's score for the famous "wedding march" is going up for sale for $3.6 million. The piece, commonly played when brides walk down the aisle and dubbed "Here Comes the Bride," was penned by the German composer for his 1850 opera "Lohengrin." It was apparently popularized when it was used at the 1858 royal wedding of Princess Victoria to German Emperor and King of Prussia Frederick III. The multi-million dollar sheet music's being sold through Moments in Time.

Police Officer Test

How do you tell the difference between an Australian Police Officer, a Canadian Police Officer, an American Police Officer and a Scottish police officer? The answer is found below.

QUESTION: You're a policeman, on duty by yourself. You are walking on a deserted street late at night. Suddenly, an armed man with a huge knife comes around the corner, locks eyes with you and screaming something that sounds like obscenities, raises the knife and lunges at you. You are carrying your truncheon and are an expert in using it. However, you have only a split second to react before he reaches you. What do you do?

ANSWERS:

Canadian Police Officer:

Firstly, the Officer must consider the man's human rights.

1. Does the man look poor and/or oppressed?
2. Is he newly arrived in this country and does not yet understand the law?
3. Is this really a knife or a ceremonial dagger?
4. Have I ever done anything to him that would inspire him to attack?
5. Am I dressed provocatively?
6. Could I run away?
7. Could I possibly swing my truncheon and knock the knife out of his hand?
8. Should I try and negotiate with him to discuss his wrongdoings?

9. Why am I carrying a truncheon anyway and what kind of message does this send to society?

10. Does he definitely want to kill me or would he be content just to wound me?

11. If I were to grab his knees and hold on, would he still want to stab and kill me?

12. If I raise my truncheon and he turns and runs away, do I get blamed if he falls over, knocks his head and kills himself?

13. If I hurt him and lose the subsequent court case, does he have the opportunity to sue me, cost me my job, my credibility and the loss of my family home?

Letter: Will history repeat itself?

Posted: September 7, 2015 3:00 AM

How ironic that we took pre-emptive steps to fight Iraq when we thought they had weapons of mass destruction. Yet we are rushing to help Iran obtain weapons of mass destruction. Our negotiations with Iran remind me of another embarrassing time in our history when we (Allied Powers) tried to negotiate with the devil in World War II all in the name of appeasement. We did nothing when Hitler began rearming, then we handed him the Rhineland, Austria and Czechoslovakia. We looked the other way when Hitler sent those deemed unworthy of life to extermination camps - mentally ill, disabled, gypsies, homosexuals, Christians and Jews. Then we closed our doors when they desperately tried to escape.

In another twist of irony, some in Iran regard themselves as the original heirs to the Aryan identity or Hitler's superior race. In fact, Iran means "land of the Aryans." Iran has been a German ally since the 1800s and through both world wars. Former Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad has repeatedly asserted the Holocaust never happened. Where will our negotiations and appeasements with the devil's partner lead this time?

Immigrant flood unleashes moral status competition, emotional incontinence and hypocrisy

Francis Carr Begbie, September 7, 2015 — 37 Comments

The status war has finally broken out in earnest over the Syrian refugees. The first shot was fired by the glamorous blonde Icelandic blogger who offered to adopt a Syrian child and encouraged her countrymen to let out their spare rooms to the refugees. Around 10,000 Icelanders have responded positively to her Facebook campaign and her picture has been seen around the world as a result. Here's a video of Dutch welcoming refugees with song.

Then the Finnish Prime Minister weighed in with an offer to let out his second house and got plaudits all around for this selfless demonstration. Again the Finns rallied around and the offers have been pouring in.

But now the big rollers have arrived. Sir Bob Geldof says he will put three Syrian families in his rambling country house in Kent and put another one in his London place. The publicity avalanche generated by this has been predictably huge.

It was very generous of Saint Bob but only fair as the humanitarianism business has been so good to him. Back in 1985 Bob's pop music career had long fizzled out when he had the bright idea of a record and concert for African famine relief, the big cause at the time.

His business partner remembered that when they first dreamed it up in a greasy spoon café, Bob was so broke he couldn't pay for his bacon sandwich. Today Geldof is one of the wealthiest men in the British media — thanks to Live Aid. He really did show that you can do well by doing good.

All of which now piles the pressure on Oscar-winning actress Emma Thompson. Last week she was enjoying herself hugely chastising her fellow British as "racist" and "shameful" for being reluctant to take in refugees. Now Britain has decided to take in tens of thousands — time to throw open the doors of that huge Hampstead mansion, Emma!

Strangely there is much more enthusiasm for accusing others of racism and shameful behaviour than there is for actually opening up their own houses.

For what the crisis is highlighting is the strength of one of the strongest but least acknowledged forces of the age. WEMI — or Western Emotional Incontinence — is a form of narcissism common to prosperous Western countries in which deranged and self-destructive fits of empathy seem to overtake the middle class — and especially the gentle sex.

While not a root cause, WEMI is a massive accelerant to what is happening now. Like atomic fission, WEMI could be harnessed for good causes or wielded for bad ones. Unfortunately our ruling elites seem to know this very well.

It took a commenter on the Steve Sailer blog to put his finger on it and he used the iconic photograph of the dead Kurdish child on the beach.

In Germany, which is being held up as the greatest country in Europe, upwards of 40% of women with advanced degrees have no children. The drowned child was their child, their family is the family of the world. Hence as a result of that photo the prime minister of Finland has announced that he will place his second home at the disposal of Syrian refugees.

Is it too uncharitable to suggest that, amongst left-wing women in particular, this is not fuelled by altruism so much as a combination of attention-seeking, status-enhancement and hatred? Hatred of White men whom they blame for their unhappiness? Hatred of working class White men who, in Britain, are constantly demonized as workshy, benefit-addicted degenerates?

Some men's rights activists have theorized that a matriarchal society makes women unhappy and they will attempt to open the gates to new, more virile, men as replacements. Perhaps this is cuckoldry on a societal level.

To remember a time when society lost its collective mind in this way British people only have to cast their minds back to the death of Princess Diana when the entire nation's womenfolk seemed to take leave of their senses. The queues of female mourners, wanting to pay their respects, stretched for miles outside her London home.

Amongst Jews especially there seems little taste for opening their own homes to Muslim immigrants. They don't like being told what to do. But they seem to have an endless appetite for shaming, nagging, lecturing, preaching and barking out orders about the moral shortcomings of the British while hypocritically ignoring Israel's response to the crisis. There can be little doubt that the Jewish community favors very generous policies toward refugees.

One reason for this is that Jews tend to see the situation in terms of the Jewish experience as refugees during World War II rather than from the point of view of the present interests of the UK and its people. That non-Jewish countries should be open to refugees is widely, if not universally, seen as a basic Jewish interest. Deep in the Jewish psyche is the memory of the voyage of the St. Louis in May, 1939 in which Jewish refugees from Europe were not admitted to Cuba and the U.S. did nothing because of pervasive anti-immigration attitudes at the time.

Failed politician David Miliband chided the British public that they were "betraying their proud history of helping the displaced" — a plea heavily larded with the lachrymose tale of his own family's wartime struggle to get into Britain. (Miliband now makes a handsome living running a humanitarian aid NGO in New York as consolation for not becoming the Labour leader.)

The Independent was one of the outlets willing to air the hysterical observation from Andrew Strohlein, media director of Human Rights Watch, that the ghost of the Holocaust was summoned up because the police in Czechoslovakia were numbering the refugees on their arms with pen and ink. Strohlein's Twitter feed seems spew out shaming and blaming accusations around the clock.

The Guardian gave Jonathan Sachs space to rehearse the well-worn Kindertransport story while the paper's Diplomatic Editor Julian Borger recited the tale of his own family's wartime flight from Vienna to Britain, the argument being that if his family was ambitious and talented, all refugees must be similarly endowed and similarly motivated ("Refugees bring hope, not trouble – my father's story is proof of that").

And speaking of Kindertransport and the tendency to see the situation as a Jewish allegory, this is from the Jerusalem Post: With all the questions about how Europe should deal with the Syrian refugee crisis hitting its shores, one Holocaust refugee says that the Syrian refugees should be welcomed in wholeheartedly as he was 77 years ago.

Leslie Baruch Brent, a professor emeritus in immunology, was just a child when his parents sent him to live at a Jewish orphanage in Berlin to escape the unbearable anti-Semitism in the small German town where they lived. ... "We [meaning the British] owe this to mankind to help the unfortunate people who are desperate and whose plight we are to some extent to blame for," he said in reference to the Iraq War, which he claimed led to the creation of Islamic State. ...

So far, Brent described the British treatment of the refugee situation as "horrendously negative and selfish" and criticized the way Europe as a whole has handled the situation. "Europe has a responsibility to help refugees," he said.

Germany's recent welcoming of Syrian refugees into their country was described by Brent as a shining example of how other countries should handle the situation.

Now with a desperate situation facing refugees fleeing the civil war in Syria, Brent says Europe has a duty to let in the refugees.

In the Guardian, Jonathan Freedland led the finger-wagging by telling us that we must resolve to "do better." Nevertheless, his heart is warmed by housing projects in Sheffield and London that will prioritise refugees over the natives in overcrowded Britain.

On the BBC, Chief Rabbi Ephraim Mirvis was interviewed by Political Editor — and fellow Jew — Laura Kuenssberg. They agreed that White countries must do much more share the wealth with the Muslims. Mirvis discussed the crisis with Pope Francis who has very generously agreed to accept two (2) refugee families at Vatican parishes.

The Pope said: 'We all share this world together, therefore we need to care for this world together. We need to recognise that the plight of the refugees is not only their problem, it's also our problem, these are real people. That's why the first thought that crossed my mind when I saw the picture was, God forbid, it could have been a child of mine, a child of yours, anybody's child.'

But for sheer gall it is difficult to beat Jewish journalist Ronald Brabazon from the Salzburger Nachrichten newspaper in Austria.

Rather than making a Julian Borger-type claim based on the success of his own family, he claimed that immigration was proven to produce economic success because of the success of 750,000 Russian refugees who arrived in Israel. Of course, he omitted to say that these were Jews arriving in a Jewish society. What everyone was too polite to mention was that Israel was taking in no refugees at all. The country is too small, says Netanyahu (although it wasn't too small to admit the aforesaid 750,000 Jewish refugees). And in any case they are busy exporting their African "infiltrators" to Sweden and building a wall to keep Syrian refugees out.

It's not just Israel's behavior that is getting no coverage. What is not being asked is one of the most amazing aspects of the story so far — astonishing given the saturation-coverage. Everywhere you looked, the refugee narrative fell apart. Many of the Syrian refugees are not Syrian and aren't even refugees. There is the disconnect between the pictures of the strapping, healthy looking young men and rhetoric about traumatized women and children who are nowhere to be seen.

The iconic picture of the dead child on the beach? The Kurdish parents were not in a war zone and had been living in a safe area for three years before their reckless decision to take to sea. But this is hardly mentioned apart from obscure reports like this one entitled "We are being taken for fools."

And then there is the selective amnesia about the elderly Italian couple who had their throats slit by two Black refugees after arriving by boat from Libya. And how two asylum seekers were arrested after a mother and her son were stabbed to death in IKEA of all places.

And has it not struck you how well televised and photographed an event it is. Even the arrival of migrants to a rapturous applause in Germany seemed to be choreographed. The refugees even managed to co-ordinate chants for the benefit of the cameras? In several languages? Has it not struck you how slick this all is?

Will we discover that this is about as "spontaneous" as the colour revolutions that spread across Eastern Europe and turned out to be largely organised by Western security sources and such selfless individuals as George Soros?

Perhaps people were not asking difficult questions because they are too intoxicated with their own self-righteousness. They are too busy feeling good about themselves — and chastising others.

Labor and those who wished to see Justice/Commissioner Heydon removed from the case fail to live by certain fundamental moral and legal values. For example, the principle of "Guilt by Association" is not one of the values that true Western intellectual societies subscribe to. All those who wished to have Heydon removed, however, do subscribe to this principle, which indicates how morally and intellectually bankrupt they are. – ed. AI.

Labor fails to oust Dyson Heydon through Senate

Jane Lee, September 8, 2015

Labor has failed in a Senate bid to force out trade union royal commissioner Dyson Heydon.

Senator Penny Wong asked the Senate on Tuesday to support a motion to request Governor-General Sir Peter Cosgrove remove Mr Heydon as commissioner by revoking the Letters Patent issued to him.

The motion said Mr Heydon's acceptance of an invitation to speak at a Liberal Party fundraiser meant he "has failed to uphold the standards of impartiality expected of a holder of the office of royal commissioner".

Mr Heydon decided not to step down from the commission last month, after the ACTU, CFMEU and National Workers Union accused him of creating apprehended bias by accepting the invitation while he was a commissioner.

The motion was defeated, with 34 senators supporting it, and 34 opposed to it.

Independent senators Jackie Lambie and Glenn Lazarus supported the motion, while senators Nick Xenophon, John Madigan, Family First Senator Bob Day and Australian Motoring Enthusiast Ricky Muir opposed it.

Liberal Democrat senator David Leyonhjelm and Palmer United Party senator Dio Wang abstained.

The unions have not publicly announced whether they will ask the Federal Court to intervene. This is now the only option left to them to have Mr Heydon removed, with the Abbott government vigorously defending the commissioner's integrity.

A spokeswoman for the ACTU and the CFMEU, and a spokesman for the National Workers Union said they had no further comment on their decisions on Tuesday afternoon.

Senator Wong, the leader of the opposition in the Senate, earlier said: "It is untenable for a royal commissioner who is conducting a politically charged inquiry to be politically compromised."

Most Australians, she said, would disagree with Mr Heydon's finding that the event, named after former Liberal member and High Court Chief Justice Garfield Barwick, was not a Liberal Party event.

"His actions contradict his words because he withdrew from the event belatedly, telling organisers he would be unable to deliver the address if there were any possibility it could be described as a Liberal party event. You have to ask yourself, 'If it wasn't a Liberal party event why did he withdraw?'"

Mr Heydon dismissed an application by the unions for him to disqualify himself last week, saying that the "fair-minded lay observer" would not apprehend he might not "bring an impartial mind" to the inquiry.

He said in his ruling that the hypothetical observer would believe he had withdrawn from the event "not because to do it will give rise to a reasonable apprehension of bias, but because the decision-maker for sensible reasons of risk management and self-preservation wishes to avoid the attacks of the suspicious and the malicious."

Attorney-General George Brandis, QC, called Senator Wong's criticism of Mr Heydon, a former High Court judge, "utterly contemptible."

Senator Brandis said that if passed, the motion would violate the fundamental constitutional principle that the Governor-General only acted on his or her ministers' advice unless they used the reserve powers of the Crown, which had only happened twice before in Australia.

"Nobody suggests that this case falls within that exception," Senator Brandis said.

"By requesting the Governor-General act contrary to the advice of ministers the resolution asks (him) to act unconstitutionally."

The resolution would also interfere with "judicial process" and violate the separation of powers because "the appropriate place for any challenge to the royal commissioner's decision not to disqualify himself is the courts."
